

From: ohughespaul@gmail.com
To: RegComments
Subject: Feedback for Regulatory Planning and Review of Existing Regulations
Date: Wednesday, July 26, 2017 2:51:23 PM

I would like to see seniors being able to earn more than just 14500.00 a year without being penalized just because they are on Social security. Amount earned per year should be up to the senior citizen not the government in all cases.

Sent from my MetroPCS 4G LTE Android device

From: ohughespaul@gmail.com
To: RegComments
Subject: Feedback for Regulatory Planning and Review of Existing Regulations
Date: Wednesday, July 26, 2017 2:57:57 PM

I would just like to comment that after people reach age 65 and retire in order to draw social security should be allowed to continue to work without a limit on what they can earn after they are drawing social security. These working people have earned the right to draw from social security and if they choose to continue working they should be allowed to without limits on what they can earn. They can still work and have SS and other Deductions continue to be made while they are still contributing to Social Security program. Seniors would literally be paying for their own benefits while they continue to work without losing benefits. It would be a win win situation for social security program and seniors who choose to continue working.

Sent from my MetroPCS 4G LTE Android device